Nestled in Noble Park, this Indonesian restaurant offers a mix of culinary experiences that leave patrons divided. Diners rave about the authentic flavors and spicy sambal, particularly enjoying dishes like Ayam Pymet and grilled beef ribs, which some describe as tender and flavorful. Families appreciate the vibrant atmosphere, augmented by a serving robot that delights children. However, concerns arise over quality control, as recent reports mentioned unhygienic practices and reduced dish offerings. Despite these inconsistencies, many are willing to overlook shortcomings for the tempting, spicy cuisine that evokes memories of Indonesia.
